

MASTER OF ARTS IN HIGHER EDUCATION AND STUDENT AFFAIRS

A UNIVERSITY OF REDLANDS GRADUATE DEGREE PROGRAM

Offered in Fall in a hybrid format: 50% of the course is online synchronous and 50% in Redlands

36 credits

24 months

120 internship hours

2 nights per week + fieldwork

WE WELCOME THOSE WHO ARE CALLED TO CREATE CHANGE.

The Master of Arts in Education: Higher Education and Student Affairs program at the University of Redlands is designed for people pursuing careers in colleges and universities. The program focuses on organization, leadership, assessment, and examines campus cultures, support services, and student development theories.

This program prepares students to work in post-secondary institutions through exposure to the social, cultural, and organizational contexts of higher education. Students develop the skills to practice informed decision-making from a social justice perspective in their roles as higher education or student affairs professionals.

Ask us about scholarships.

Learning Outcomes

- As part of the core curriculum, students take a course on higher education representation in popular culture and the use of media in the profession
- Elective courses also include classes such as Sexuality and Gender in Higher Education and Student Affairs, Social Movements and Campus Activism, and Intergroup Dialogue in Higher Education and Student Affairs

#5 BEST UNIVERSITY IN THE WEST

U.S. News and World Report 2023